"RIOT AND MURDER IN CONNECTI-CUT."—We published in Saturday's Fines, under the above caption, an article from The New York Tribune, purporting to give an account of the death of our Abraham Ostrander, Jr., who was killed in a bar-room Abraham Ostrander, Jr., who was killed in a bar-room sight at Salisbury, Ct. It seems that the whole story was not given, and we present some further particulars, fully proving that the circus men acted only in self-defense. It seems that a party of persons (among whom was Ostrander) came into Salisbury with the avowed intention of "killing the abowenen," and that they commoned their malicious mischief by setting fire to one of the barns where the circus horses were kept. After the fire was exinguished, the circus people water affeld be allow their borses to remain in the barns, and kept them tethered to fences in the vicinity for the remainder of the night. While watching these horses, one of the circus men was struck by a countryman, and, afterder of the night. While watching these horses, one of the circus men was struck by a countryman, and, afterward, another circus man, while in the nar-room, was struck by one of the ringleaders of the mob. The circus man returned the nlow, when several set upon him, beat him very budly, and his life was only saved by the arrival of his countades. Then came the general fight, in which Ostrander was killed. Robinson, one of the circus men, has been arrested for causing his death.

This is a plain statement of facts in the case. We This is a plain statement of lacus in the case, we also learn that Robinson is a man of p-aceanle disposition, and did not resent the afficients offered in until forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, and that Ostrauder, instead of being a "lad sixteen years old, sixting quietly in the cerner of the room," is a full grown man, and was a ringlesder of the rioters.

We are often requested to notice the performances of sin, ers and other artists before they take place, with a view to increase the audiences and the profits on such occasions. Now, while we desire to do perfect justice to merit in every branch of Art, we are constrained to say that such notices do not accord with our sense of the proper sphere of a public journal. A newspaper should be conducted for the benefit of the public, not of any individual or number of individuals, no matter how distinguished in their respective professions. When an artist appears who has already achieved a reputation elsewhere, it is very proper that the readers of the journal should be in formed of that fact, in order that they be aware of what is to be expected from the efforts of such an artist, but any attempt to sound the trumpet of performers, and in the way of a puff to insist upon his or her extraordinary powers is un worthy, because it converts the journal from the servant and instructor of the public, seeking its interest alone, into the servant of an individual or a special association of individuals. So also, after a performance has taken place, if it be good enough to deserve notice at all, it is only the duty of a journal to criticise it, and put forth its judgment with regard to its merits or demerits, with the reasons for such judgment; but it is not its duty to convert its editorial columns into the recept scies of advertisements which impose upon the public all the more because they do not appear as advertisements, but seem as if the extraordinary character of the performances noticed had alone led the editor to speak of them. Honest criticism, but no puffs, is, in our view, altogether fairer to all parties than any other course, and seems alone consistent with the proper dignity of an independent jour. nal. If it is desired to inform the public of any contemplated exhibition our advertising columns offer the sure means of so doing. And if advertisers regard themselves as entitled to editorial notices because they have given us what is called " advertising patronage, we can only say that they will be very likely to be diseppointed. Any intelligence that we judge will interest the public we shall be very happy to communi cate, but more than this we cannot undertake to do.

HOUSEWARMING AT THE METROPOLI-TAN HOTEL -The lessees of the Metropolican Hotel gave a brilliant entertainment last evening to a large party, comprising the representatives of the Press, the members of the City Government, and a number of other distinguished gentlemen. M Murray, Senator from the Illd District, presided, and with grace and dignity proposed the regular toasts of the evening. The first was to the President of the United States, which was received with three times three. A toast in honor of the Mesers. In his stead, however, Senator Douglas appeared, who was received with loud cheers, and, taking ble stand on a chair in the center of the beautiful hall, proceeded to deliver the following remarks :

the following remarks:

GENTIEMEN—I am greatly indebted to you for the kind and cordial reception you have been pleased to bestow on me. I am aware that you are disappointed, because you expected the presence of that eminent stateman, whose name will be remembered in all-coming time. [Chéera.] Owing to the fadgues of the day, and the silti greater fatigue of addressing a large andlence last evening, he has been compelled to retirate the bis room. I shall not taffict upon you a speech. [Go ont] Ne, gentlemen, we are in the midst of a pritical campaign, and with gentlemen of all parties and all shades of opinion; therefore I shall not proceed when a regular meeting is assembled for political or poses, I feel myself at liberty to express myself according to my convictions, and if any whigh are there, they hear the truth whether agreeable or not. And so It I with any Democrat who happens to go to a Walg meeting I often go to such meetings, and there I expect to hear some rather sharp truths about the Democracy, and some things which do not agree with my concention of what is the truth. Gentlemen, we are returning home from a long session of Congress, where they had dispatched business. [Cries of "Dispatch! Nine months, and not one act worth a coppers"] Yes, gentlemen, and I must say that I don't know whether the country is most grateful to us for what we have done or fir what we have not done. [Great laughter] But, gentlemen, it is too had to keep me here making a dry speech when I see before me in such acundance what I have been longing for all day. And so I will now express my gratitude for the kindness and respect with which you have recrived me, along with the regretof my Blustrious frierd, Gen. Cass, at his inshifty to address you; and now I will get down off of this chair and take a social drink with you all. [Loud applause.]

It was expected yesterday, from arnouncements previously made, that High Mass would be celebrated in St. Patrick's Cathedral, for the repose of the scule of the "Martyre of Antares," me Lopez and his followers. Instead of that, Ordinary Mass only was held. Some fifty or more Cuban exiles were present, wearing crape upon their arms.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP MISSISSIP-Pt.-The U.S. steamer Mississippi, Capt. McCiuney, bearing the broad penant of Commodore Perry, has just arrived from St. John N. B.; Halifax, N. S.; the Magdalen Islands, Prince Edward's Island, and other ports in the British American possessions; and from Eastport.

The Mississipi has had an active cruise of 32 days since her departure from this port, whence she sailed under orders from the Government to be dispatched to those parts to investigate the circumstances attend. ing the recent seizures of some fishing vessels belong ing to the United States, by British critisers. Upon his arrival, and on various occasions during his cruise in those waters, Commodore Perry held conferences on the subject, with Sir Geo. F Seymour, the English Admiral; with the Governors of New-Bruns wica, and Nova Scutia, and other public officers. Doubtless the explanations given at these interviews were of a satisfactory nature. The reception given to the Commander and officers of the ship at the ports they visited, was of the most cordial and friendly character During her cruise, the Mississippi saw nearly 500 sal of fishing vessels, a large number of which were at the same time boarded by her. Officers and crew all well.

MALICIOUS CONDUCT .- Had it not been for the extreme caution and attention to his business, the Engineer, and perhaps others, would have lost their lives, and a great destruction of property would have occurred, sesterday, as the 6 o'clock train from Croton Falls was coming to the City. Some malicious person placed across the track a large "tie," and had not the speed been checked, it would have thrown the cars from the track. As it was, the cow-catcher threw it off, and the cars brought it to the Cky.

TEMPERANCE MEETING .- The first meeting of the City Temperance Alliance in their new Test, was convened on Tuesday evening at "Paradise Square!" on the Five Points. It was one of the most interesting and remarkable meetings ever convened in the City. The audience came to order at the call of Rev. C. C. Leigh, President of the Alliance, who an nounced the objects of the meeting and made a few re marks appropriate to the time and place. The audience was composed mainly of the inhabitants of this vicinity. It was an affecting seens to winess the crowds of attentive lists ers so suddenly gathered from the sarrets and ceil a of the "Bloody Sixth." Many of them were regged, barefooted, uncombed and unwashed, yet most of them were as quiet and orderly as it in the most of them were as quiet and orderly as it in the mouse of worship. It was a pleasant sight to see in the audience the one hundred inmates of the "Five Pototal Mouse of Industry," under the direction of Rev. L. M. The City Temperance Alliance held its seer nd meeting under the spactous tent in the small Park, at the Five Points, last evening. The tent was filled—some two thousand persons being present—chiefly from among that class of persons in that ricinity who so much need instruction, warning and reproof. Attracted by the novelty of the tent, the singing and speaking, they attend, behave orderly, listen attentivels, and apparently with profit. It is an uncommon thing for them to be arrested in their career by facts and arguments which alarm and affect them. A large number of children, and others connected with the House of industry, were present, and joined spiritedly in the singing. Many were unable to gain admittance to the tent. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Leigh, Rev. J. Luckey, of the Five Points Mission, Rev. Mr. Warren, of the City Alliance, and Mr. Geo. Haydock the famous temperance man from Hudson, and Mr. Peabody. Singing by Mr. Brown, Mr. Beck, and 50 or 60 children, reddents of the locality, and members of the Javentie Temperance Society. Those meetings will continue during the week.

Supreme Court - In Chambers - Before Supreme Court—In Chambers—Before Julyse Edmonds—In the matter of the shows a crypus at o Mesers. Collyer and others, (one of the owners and officers of the seambest flenty Clay,) at rested on a charge of murder by process from Westebester county, (under the fluctuage of the Coroner's Jary,) but their discharge from such arrest demanded on the ground that they are shready in custody of the U.S. Marshal on the same ground of complaint. The question came up for argument this forenoun. The position of Mesers McMahon and Cutting, counsel of defindants, is, that the case does not come within the statute of this State, also that the law of Congress, of isSe, having provided in regard to the offense charged, obtained exclusive jurisdiction. to the effense charged, obtained exclusive jurisdiction.
It is also contenued in behalf of the application, that the case does not come within manulaughter in this State. in opposition to the application, and is support of the warrants from Westchester County, it is coutender that the facts charged constitute the crime of murde under our stature; that the conduct of the relator under our statuse; that the conduct of the relators though not intended to produce death, was imminently though not intended to produce death, was imminantly danger out to passengers, and evinced a deprayed and, regardless of human life, within the meaning of the statut. If it should be held not to be murder, it is admitted that it is manisacrater in the first degree, and if not it is a question if it does not fall under the need of manishagater in the third degree. The provision of the revised statutes, 751, defining manishagater in the fourth degree, are not limited to cases where death is the imministration of the resident and the second of t degree, are not imited to cases where death is the im-mediate result of the oriental act, but that section ap-plies to all cases where death can be clearly traced to the criminal negligence of the party; and if the Judge should be satisfied that the criminal offense is sufficiently charged in the warrant, he aboutd remand the defend-ants to the Sheriff of Westchester County, to be deat ants to the Sheriff of vestchester County, to be tonse with according to law. And further, that the U.S. Course have no jurisdiction of offenses charged in the warrant, because it cannot be claimed that the case is cognizable under the power to regulate commerce; and the Henry Ci-y being solely engaged within the territocogetzable under the power to regulate com merce; and the Henry Clay being solely engaged within the territorial juniscienten of thus State—allowing that the jurisdiction is concurrent—the U.S. Courts, by any action taken by them, have not obtained exclusive jurisdiction in the case. The proper way to raise that objection would be by demuren or pie-a to the jurisdiction of the Court of Westenbester County, in the event of an indictment being tound there.

Messrs Cutting, McMahon and O'Conor appeared on benalt of defendants, and Mr. Wells, District Attorney of Westenbester Co., and Mr. Roe Lockwood, for Westenbester Co., in support of the warrants

Mr. Cutting with there was no disagreement between counsel as to the facts set forth in the papers. Tals was assented to by $\frac{1}{2}$. Wells.

Mr. McMahon briefly referred to the facts as to the burning of the Henry Clay, and the loss of life coasequent thereon, and the relators were held to busine in the U.S. Court under the Act of 1848. The District-Attorney of Westenbester County has made a compilate, charging them with murder, under the R.S. and the ground of that compilatin was the making of large and unusual fires, and the creation of an excess of steam by a more plants at least are entitled to be admitted to bail. Mr. Wells contended, and quoted a chancery decision in Sendford's Reports, that the United States law of little related only to vessels engaged in commerce, such in as seam vessels plying between a port in one State to a port in another State, and not to steam vessels engaged between two places in the same State, as the Heery Clay was, and proceeding on waters wholly within the State, &c. If the Judge, he said, found that the Court granting the warnant had jurisdiction, there would be an end of the master as to this writ, and the relators must be remanded, and in order to show him that it had jurisdiction it would be necessary togo into details as to the law, &c., and refer to the facts in connection. Mr. W. then referred to the testimony before the Coroner's inquest, the matter of increasing the free and obtaining an excess of steam with a view to realing with another boat in defiance of the remonstrances of the passengers. It would be, said Mr. W., meastrous to say that such conduct did not evince a deprayed mind, reckless of human life, within the meaning of the statute—they pureued a course of conduct which put not only the boat, but the elements beyond the'r com put not only the boat, but the elements beyond the'r control. It is the commission of acts that endanger life that make teem original, and bring them whola the statute. It is controlled on the other side, that as it was not intended to take life it does not come within the statute. To accertain this the acts which were commisted, and the manner in which they were commisted, and the manner in which they were commisted, must be looked to, and if it is seen that the daing of those acts must necessarily result, and did result; in the loss of life, it cannot be pretended out that they bring the parties within the statute—and if, from the recaless management of the boat, loss of life followed, it must be presumed, in law, that the parties had those consequences in view at the time, and under color of doing a lawful act, did an unlawful one, indicating an intent of doing it, and showing a heart regardless of social duty.

intent of doing it, and snowing social dury.

Mr W also contended that the case was not yet fally before the U S Court, and the parties had only been held to ball on warrant of Commissioner.

Mr. Lockwo.d followed, in support of Mr. W., but before he had concluded his argument the case was advanced to this forenoon.
